To celebrate NY Towers' recent start of construction, a special champagne reception was held, where a big bottle of bubbly was popped for a VIP crowd including Toronto Councilor David Shiner. This community, a joint venture between The Daniels Corporation and The Bowmore Group of Companies, consists of four dramatic point towers (two rise 28 storeys high and the remaining two complement them at 18 storeys each) and a cluster of townhomes at the base of each. Their design was inspired by the classic Art Deco architecture of the Chrysler Building and Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York.

The first residents will occupy their new suites in Spring, 2002.
